FOREWORD

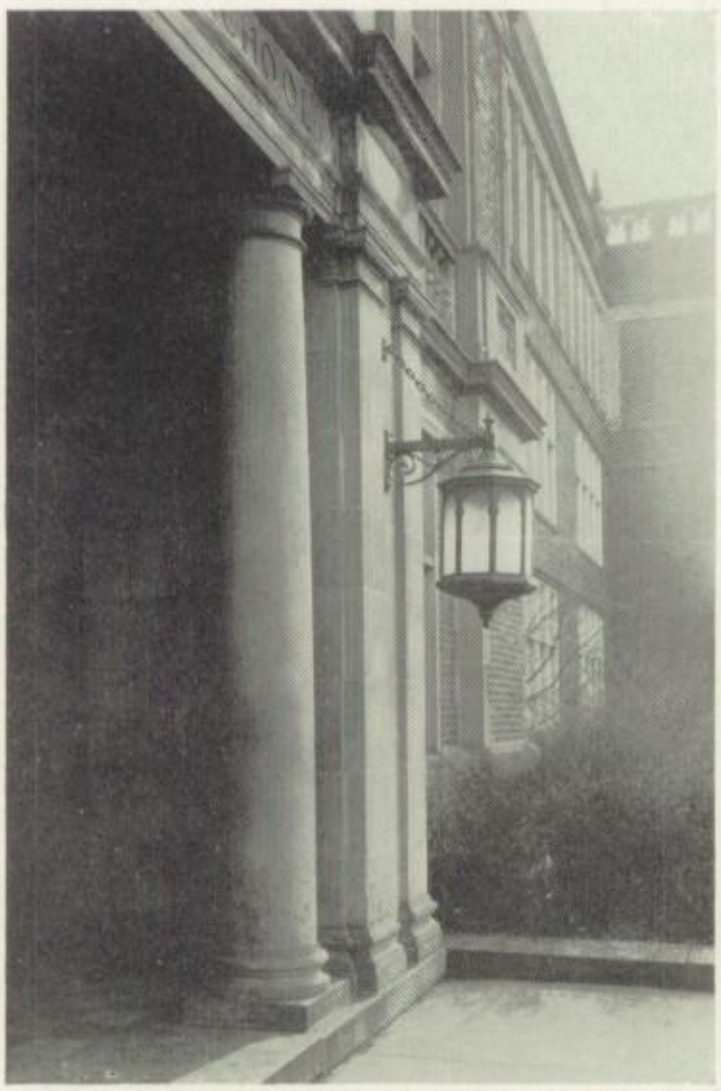
Many moons have passed, O Reader,
Moons of glory and of splendor,
Moons of chaos and disaster,
Unremembered by the living,
Now forgotten, save in legend.

Many months and many seasons
Countless as the leaves of Autumn,
Myriad as the stars of midnight,
Have made their way across the meadows,
Lingered near the fertile cornfields,
Wandered through the virgin forests,
Since Black Hawk, leader of his people,
Mighty chieftain of the Prairies,
Rested from his day of hunting,
Sat before his ornate wigwam,
Pondered while he puffed the peacepipe,
Dreamed and drowsed and saw the smoke plumes
Curl and twist in slow gyrations
Upward 'til the fires of sunset
Seemed to smoulder in the heavens—

Long he gazed in meditation
At the gold and purple splendor,
Thinking of the Past and Present,
Wondering where the Red Man's Future,
Musing on the Great Hereafter,
When suddenly there rose before him,
Vaguely veiled in dusk and twilight,
The Vision of a vast Tomorrow—

Marveling, Black Hawk saw the Cedar
Spanned by stone and steel-made bridges,
Saw the smoke of many chimneys
Mar the beauty of the heavens,

FOREWORD



Saw Progress bloom upon the Prairies
Like some bright flower of the Southland,
Beheld the Red Man and the bison
Driven on toward Western waters,
But counted greater than these wonders,
Greater than the teeming cities,
Tall stone teepees made for learning
Set profusely, that the tribesmen
There might send their Youths and Maidens,
There to walk in ways of wisdom,
There to study with the wise ones
That they might sometime lead their people,
Be future chieftains of the nation—
As quickly then the Vision faded,
Vanished in the evening shadows,
Melted as the mists of morning,
Yet brightly shone in Black Hawk's memory
As the silver star of evening
That hung above the whispering treetops,
That danced 'til dawn upon the waters—

Turn these pages then, O Reader,
Find the Dream herein recorded,
Read the tale of Youth's Achievement
Earned by triumphs and by failures,
Read of artists and musicians,
Read of sportsmen and skilled craftsmen,
Read of those who gather daily
By the shining Flame of Knowledge
In the great stone teepee made for learning,
Set in splendor near the Cedar
In a thriving prairie city,
In a Land of Peace and Plenty.

—Alene Dunlap.

DEDICATION

MRS. MAUDE PALMER

There was one within the teepee
Who taught the children of the tribesmen
Many things about their language,
One whose efforts and endeavors,
Selflessness and constant striving,
Inspired the scholars of the teepee,
One to whom, in recognition,
This book is dedicated.

THE SCHOOL

THE SCHOOL

Tall and splendid rose the teepee
Where the children of the tribesmen
Daily came to search for Knowledge . . .
But dark behind it, like a forest,
Like a dense and sunless woodland,
Stretched the murky Gloom of Ignorance,
Ever threatening to engulf it . . .

Wisely then the learned leaders
Built a fire before the teepee,
Built a fire fed by the fagots
Of their learning and their wisdom,
Kindled it with high endeavor,
Then watched the fire whose flames were silver
Illuminate the Gloom of Ignorance,
Dispell the shadows and the darkness . . .

Many times the Chief of chieftains
Summoned those within the teepee,
Called the lesser chiefs together,
Discussed with them perplexing problems,
Sought to find the wisest methods
By which to teach each kind of learning,
Then long before the fire of council
They would sit in meditation,
Their constant striving for Perfection,
The Shining Flame before the teepee .

TO THE FACULTY

Even as the Virgin Forest,
Standing strong against the North Wind,
Spreading shade in torrid Summer,
Useless is without the woodsman
That cuts the branches into firewood . . .

Even as the Fertile Prairie,
Rich earth that rolls to far horizons,
Stretching black beneath the sunshine,
Lies, a barren, fruitless, wasteland,
Unless the golden grain is sown . . .

Even as the sparkling rivers,
Cutting strange and silver patterns
In the valleys and the lowlands . . .
Even as these waterways,
If uncontrolled, are filled with treachery . . .
Even so, our lives and talents
Futile are without direction . . .

Thus, within the great stone Teepee
Were those who taught, the learned Instructors
Who labored long with Wisdom's patience,
Ever guiding and directing
The lives and minds of many students,
The youths and maidens of the Tribesmen . . .

—Alene Dunlap.

CLASSES

CLASSES

From the myriad wigwams of the tribesmen,
Wigwams ornate; wigwams simple,
Through ways as devious as rivers,
As distant as the East and West Wind,
And scattered as the stars of midnight,
Came the eager youths and maidens,
Searching for the flame of Knowledge . . .

Thus were welded many friendships
While the children of the tribesmen
Studied earnestly together . . .
Beheld, through tales of high adventure,
The history of their glorious nation . . .
Were trained with skill in various handcrafts,
Learned the higher arts; discovered
How to best adapt their talents . . .

So the classes of the teepee
Sought to keep the high traditions,
Tried with loyalty and spirit,
Tried with honor and achievement,
To keep undimmed and bright forever
The fine prestige, the fame and glory
Of their many predecessors . . .

ACTIVITIES

ACTIVITIES

Wisely then the learned leaders
Knowing the development
Of the many youths and maidens
Must go beyond mere books and study,
Formed numerous clubs and organizations
To train in leadership and service,
To aid in growth and understanding
The many scholars of the teepee . . .

There were choruses of singers
For those with voices sweet and birdlike,
While others found in instruments
A medium of self-expression . . .
An inner council, led by students,
Worked to bring their smaller problems
To accord with their instructors . . .
Also there were organizations
Stressing friendships; stressing culture . . .
Clubs for athletes and for artists . . .
Activities for all the students . . .

So this teepee of the prairie
Taught the children of the tribesmen
A broader, finer way of living . . .

—Alene Dunlap.

The West High Girls' Athletic Association is open to any girl in high school who is interested in athletics. Business and social meetings are held every week for the girls to get together and enjoy the many sports in which they can participate.

The girls in this organization have an opportunity to develop skills as they engage in the various sports outlined and set up by the state organization, with which this local group is affiliated. A girl must earn 500 points before she is entitled to an old rose and black W, and a minimum of 500 additional points is required for the state award, a gold and black pin. Points are earned by hours of participation in athletics. Girls who have won letters are:

Lois Lange
Avis Fossler
Edythe Gigl
Bernice Buttke
Betty Gould
Dorothy Gnagy
Rose Katz
Bette Shearer
Annabelle Spragle
Betty Van Sickle
Paulyne Yungclas

The officers of the club are:

President .....Lois Lange
Vice President.....Paulyne Yungclas
Secretary .....Bette Shearer
Treasurer .....Clara Foreman

The Forensics of West High School are divided into four divisions—Debate, Original Oratory, Extemporaneous Speaking, and Interpretive Reading. This year the students of our school participated in the State Finals in each of these events.

Chief among these activities is debate. With the introduction of a new course in argumentation and public discussion, West High resumed interscholastic debate competition. During the season, as many as twenty-five students participated in approximately two hundred debates.

The season began with an invitational debate clinic sponsored by West High to which sixteen schools responded. Following this clinic, various teams participated in the following tournaments: Teachers' College High Invitational Clinic, Fort Dodge, Elkader, Luther College, Brindley Tournament at Teachers' College, the Big Four sponsored by East High of Waterloo, Coe College, Drake University, and culminating in the Iowa State tournament under the auspices of the University of Iowa. West High placed fourth in the state meet. In these various events, the debaters competed with teams from Nebraska, Illinois, and Minnesota.

Comprising the varsity debate squad and participating in most of these events were Roy Pickett, Avis Camp, and Paul Mongerson, affirmative, and Edward Kemp and Jack Kough, negative.

Of the forty-six students who wrote original orations, eight competed in the school elimination contest. Bill Birenbaum placed first, thus gaining the right to compete in subsequent contests. Bette Gibson won second place. Bill Birenbaum came through the district finals at Oelwein, delivered his oration at Iowa City and received fifth place among the thirteen speakers.

Another new competitive activity was extemporaneous speaking. Eight people competed in the school contest in which Ralph Teske placed first and Peter Seip, second. After winning an unanimous decision at Oelwein, Ralph Teske represented West High at the State Finals on March 30 and placed fifth. This speech was broadcast.

Those who were to participate in the Interpretive Reading division of the State Festival were chosen from a group of approximately thirty interested students. In the final school contest, Peter Seip, Dorothy Simonsen, Gerry Garner, Bette Gbison, and Leona Weiss won places. They represented West High at the State Festival in Iowa City on April 1. Peter Seip received a superior rating and appeared in a special recital.

West High has made application for a chapter in the National Forensic League, an honorary society for speech students. Those who belong to the society are awarded keys for meritorious work.

The greatest service our educational institutions can render to our democracy is to train students to do their share in meeting the problems of the day. Research, thinking, and speech are the instruments of this training. In recognition of those students who have thus equipped themselves, the National Forensic League was formed.

The National Forensic League is restricted to five hundred chapters located in forty different states. Membership in a chapter comes through participation in debate, original oratory, and extempore. The N. F. L. confers four degrees depending upon the extent of a student's activity in speech; they are: merit, honor, excellence, and distinction. A student's degree is signified by the jewel on his key.

The following degrees have been awarded to West High speakers:

Ralph Teske .....degree of honor
Roy Pickett .....degree of honor
Paul Mongerson .....degree of honor
Edward Kemp .....degree of excellence
Avis Camp .....degree of excellence
Charles Carpenter .....degree of excellence
Jack Kough .....degree of excellence

The Editor Speaks

SOMEONE has said that culture is the entire process by which we gain information and refine our impulses and activities to conform to the concepts of society. Similarly, education is not confined to the pages of textbooks nor the lectures of teachers. Rather, it includes a broadening process apart from the regular classroom work. We may call this process education by association, for it involves cooperating with others in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit for all concerned. Modern society is vitally dependent upon this phase of human relationship—upon consideration and sacrifice for others.

West High has provided every facility for the founding and operation of extra-curricular activities. Virtually every field is represented by some sort of organization. In all these organizations, which are open to everyone, students are shown how to work with others, how to secure pleasure and enjoyment, and, at the same time, to refrain from interfering with the activities of others. Extra-curricular activities not only afford a new field to students—they are making a valuable contribution to American culture.

In conjunction, I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my gratitude for the fine cooperation and assistance afforded by the members of the staff, the faculty, and the student body in general. To them should go largely the credit for whatever success has been achieved in the 1939 Wahawk.

RALPH TESKE,
Editor-in-chief.

Book IV

ATHLETICS

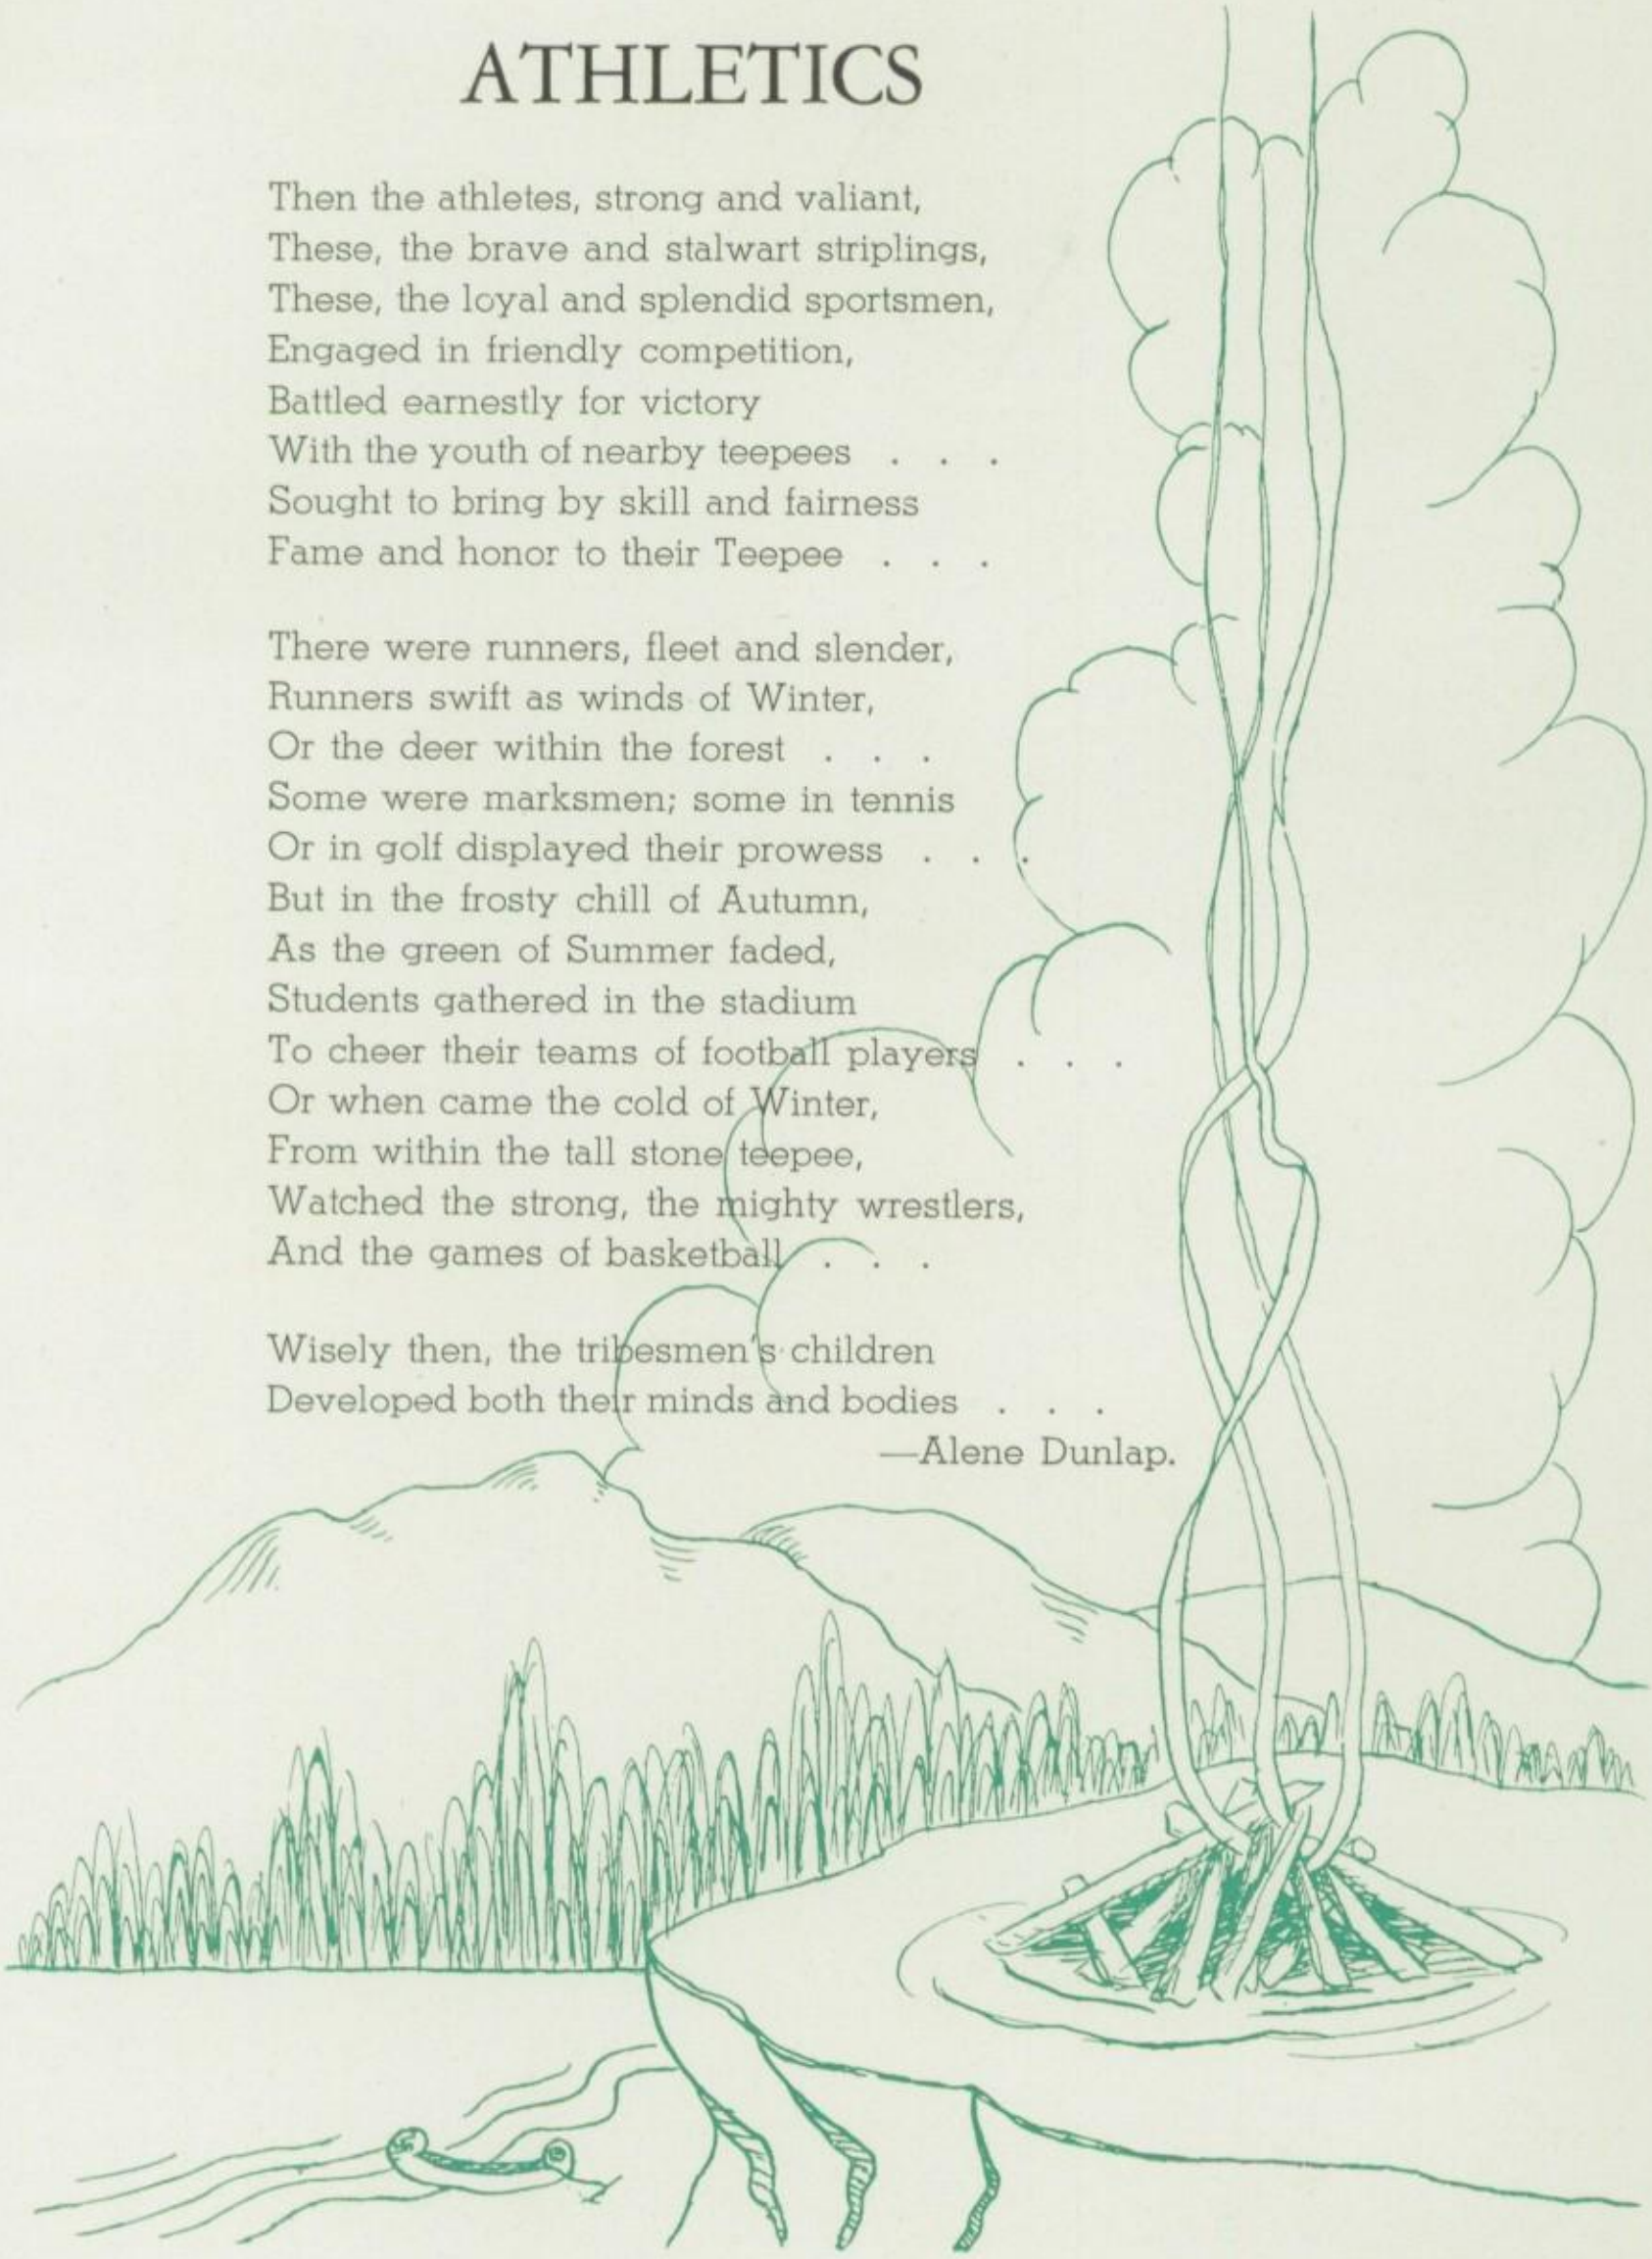
ATHLETICS

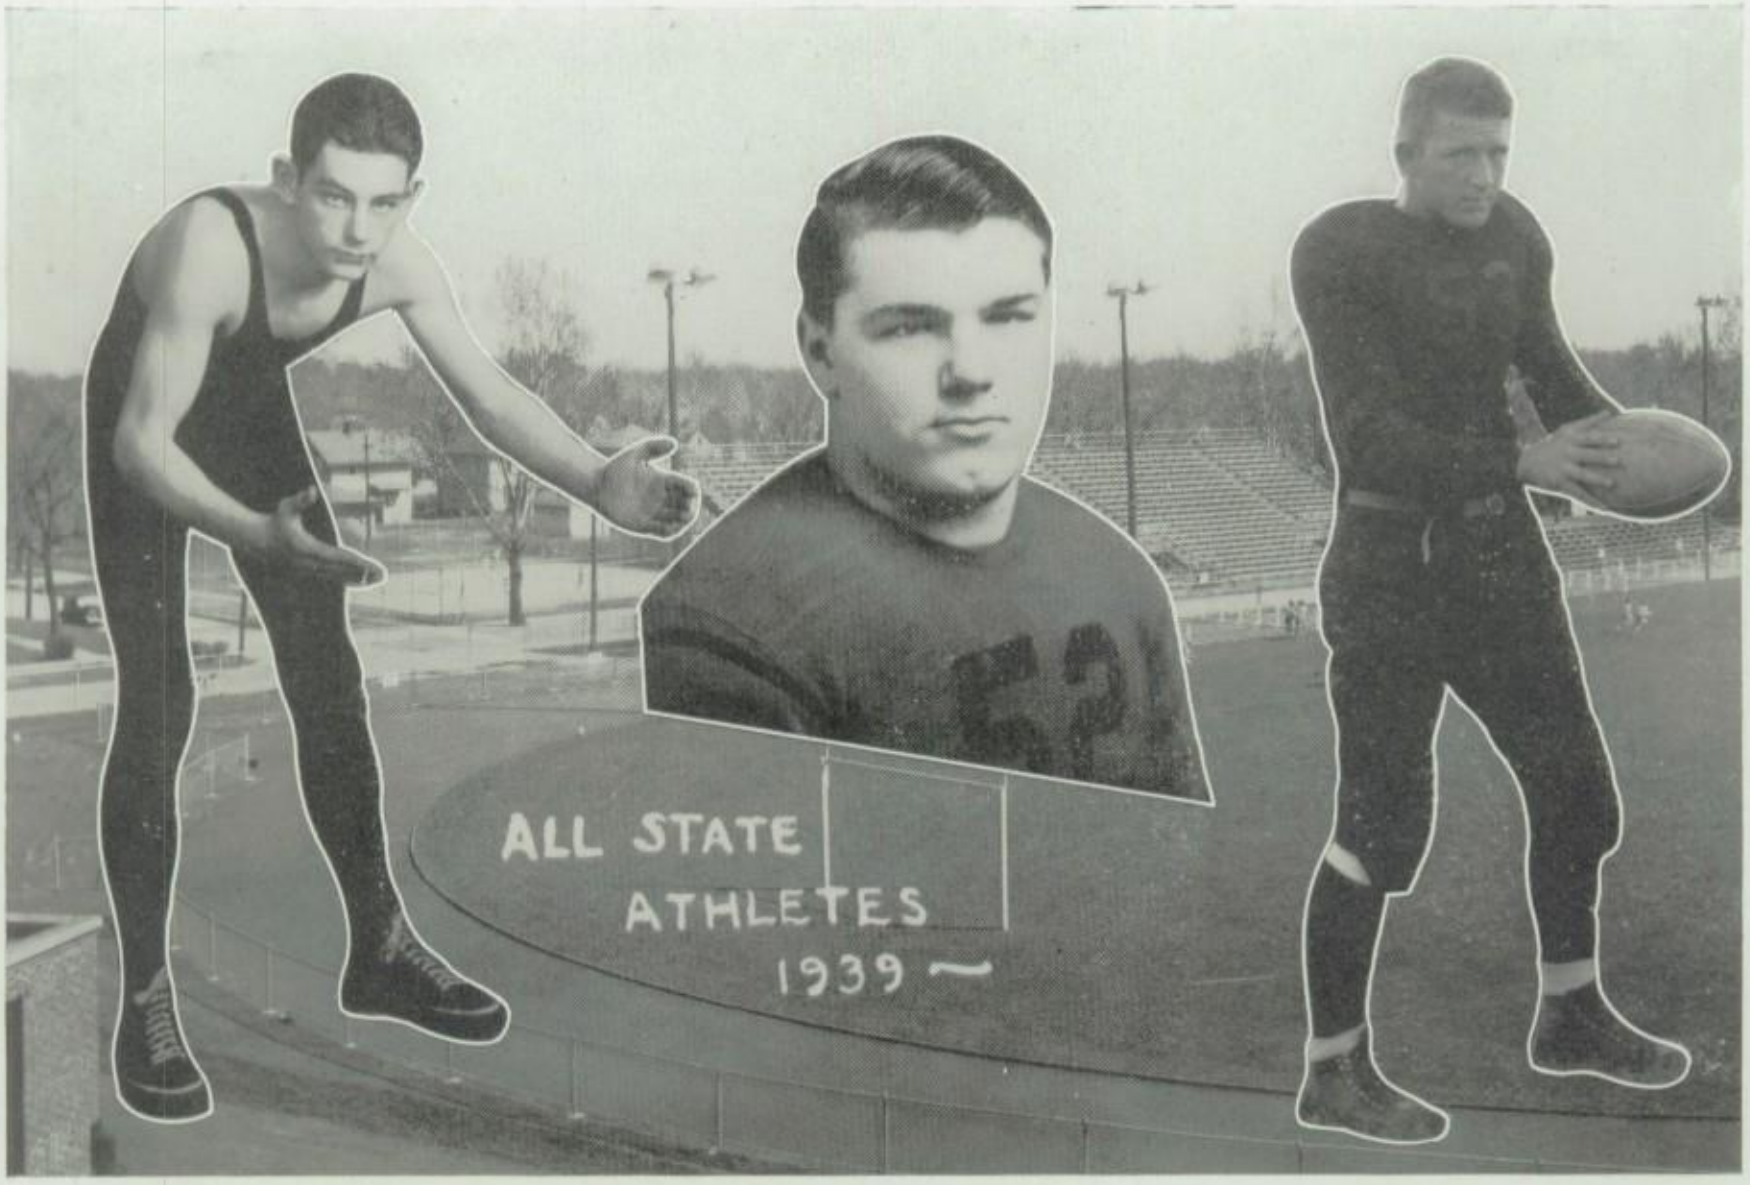
Then the athletes, strong and valiant,
These, the brave and stalwart striplings,
These, the loyal and splendid sportsmen,
Engaged in friendly competition,
Battled earnestly for victory
With the youth of nearby teepees . . .
Sought to bring by skill and fairness
Fame and honor to their Teepee . . .

There were runners, fleet and slender,
Runners swift as winds of Winter,
Or the deer within the forest . . .
Some were marksmen; some in tennis
Or in golf displayed their prowess . . .
But in the frosty chill of Autumn,
As the green of Summer faded,
Students gathered in the stadium
To cheer their teams of football players . . .
Or when came the cold of Winter,
From within the tall stone teepee,
Watched the strong, the mighty wrestlers,
And the games of basketball . . .

Wisely then, the tribesmen's children
Developed both their minds and bodies . . .

—Alene Dunlap.





JACK WILCOX

Jack Wilcox, ace 115 pound grappler, ascended the wrestling heights in his junior year by capturing the State individual championship in his class. A smart, clever grappler, Wilcox went undefeated during the season. He became the second West High wrestler to accomplish this feat since wrestling has been a major sport at West High.

BOB PENALUNA

As a fitting climax to two years of outstanding performance on both offense and defense, Bob Penaluna, 207 pound tackle, was awarded a first string berth on the I. D. P. A. all-state grid team. The spearhead of West High's line, Penaluna could also be depended upon for yardage on his ball carrying attempts from his tackle post.

CLARENCE KNOX

As a carry-over from his 1937-38 All-State recognition, Clarence Knox, Old Rose grid star, repeated the honor by gaining a place on Jack North's Des Moines Register mythical squad. A veritable powerhouse offensively and defensively, Knox gained most attention by his ball toting, punting, and place kicking.

Football 1938

Third Row: Glenn Dexter, Sam Tarr, Howard Rogers, Elmo Buker, Jim McCombs, Bob Pedersen, Frank Penn, Dick Brecunier.
Fourth Row: Manager Bill Bunch, Melvin Cobb, Daryl Annis, Herbert Hauser, Paul McDowell, Jim Armstrong, Merle Fay, Bill Clark, Gerald Johnson.

After getting off to a shaky early season start, Coach E. Glenn Strobridge shifted his West High grid machine into high gear to rack up five victories as compared to two losses, and one deadlock for the season's record. The Wahawks scored 110 points to their opponents' 77 in compiling this record.

The Old Rose gridders pounded out 92 first downs to 56 for the opposition, and piled up 1,926 gross yards to the foes' 1,292 total yards in finishing out the season.

West was led throughout the season by its All-State duo, Clarence Knox and Bob Penaluna, with Dick Brecunier, ace half-back, coming in for his share of the honors. Knox, a 200-pound line bomber kicked, passed, and ran with the ball, as well as playing his regular tackle post. He gained 417 yards during the season, averaging 6.3 yards per thrust. Brecunier, versatile senior, bore the passing burden on the squad, while turning in fine running and line backing performances. On both offense and defense, Penaluna, massive guard, was the backbone of the Old Rose line.

After dropping its first two games of the year, the Wahawks surged back to take five out of the last six tilts, with only a tie with Mason City blemishing their late season record. The climax of the entire year was reached in the final contest when West staged a stubborn last half rally to nose out East Waterloo 14-13.

Those winning letters were Clarence Knox, Irvin Knox, Bob Penaluna, Dick Brecunier, Howard Parker, Warren Zilmer, Jack Young, Frank Wolf, Dick Berry, George Schoel, George Appleby, Orval Smith, Herbert Hauser, Glenn Dexter, Pete Seip, and Cloyce Lockey. Of these, Irvin Knox, Glenn Dexter, and George Schoel will be the only ones returning for the 1939 season.

Season's Record:

Basketball

Surviving a lengthy mid-year slump, West High Cagers hit a winning stride late in the season to wind up the regular cage schedule with ten wins and seven reverses. The Old Rose five hit a snag in the form of Teachers' High of Cedar Falls in the sectional tourney, however, and was nosed out 20-18, to conclude the basketball season.

During the entire year the squad was beset with injuries which severely hampered the top men on the team. At various intervals during the season George Heintz, Ed Fecht, and Daryl Annis were on the ailing list, with smaller injuries cropping up among the other squad members.

In the individual field, most of the honors were captured by Ed Fecht, senior forward, though the points scored were evenly divided among the players. Fecht scored a total of 97 points in eighteen games to hold a 20 point margin over his nearest mate, Jim McCombs, who counted 77 points. McCombs, however, had the best percentage on his shots from the field, netting 30% of them to lead this department. Jack Darland, junior center, made 66% of his charity tosses to have the best percentage in that field.

Much of the early season success of the West quintet must be credited to Dick Brecunier, all-state guard, who graduated mid-year. Brecunier was the only letterman back at the beginning of the season, and contributed much to the team's steadiness.

The letter winners were—Dick Brecunier, Ed Fecht, Jim McCombs, Jack Darland, Warren Zilmer, George Heintz, Bob Miller, and Wendell Hayward.

The High Spot of the year came with West's hair-raising 28-27 triumph over its ancient rival, East High. Season's record:

West	24	Orange	8
West	35	Dunkerton	21
West	40	Wilson, Cedar Rapids	23
West	21	Franklin, Cedar Rapids	14
West	18	McKinley, Cedar Rapids	15

Wrestling

Powerful opponents, illness, and mid-year graduation all proved to be costly stumbling blocks in the path of West High's wrestling team during the 1938-39 season. Nevertheless, the grapplers raced through their heavy ten meet schedule with only three losses to blemish their record. Three major tournament crowns were also captured by Coach Finn B. Eriksen's mat squad during the year.

Starting the season with few veterans back, the Old Rose came through with victories over West Des Moines, Cresco, Grinnell, Dubuque, Iowa Falls, East Waterloo, and Mason City, all state ranking squads, while dropping close matches to Osage, Fort Dodge, and New Hampton.

Illness and injuries cropped out constantly during the season, putting several of Eriksen's key men out for major portions of the schedule. The squad was hardest hit before the important Fort Dodge battle, when four regulars were unable to see action because of illness.

Counting 58 points, West won its first meet trophy at the Quadrangular tourney as New Hampton trailed with 35 points, followed by East Waterloo with 33, and Cresco with 15. It was the second consecutive year that the Old Rose wrestlers had taken the tournament.

The initial Mississippi Valley conference wrestling title was snatched up by the Wahawks. West scored 36 points, East Waterloo 32, Davenport 22, Dubuque 14, and Clinton 7.

After placing second in the annual Big Four meet, Eriksen's men won the District tourney, placing eight grapplers in the state finals. West captured the District team trophy by a comfortable margin, outscoring its nearest foe, East Waterloo, 44 to 23.

Jack Wilcox, dependable 115-pound ace, battled his way to an individual crown in the State meet, to lead West to a seventh place spot in the team standings. Herb Hauser, 155-pounder, lost a grueling match to McManus, Cherokee, in the finals of his division, but came back to take a third place medal.

Captain Charles Uban, 145-pound scrapper, led his mates to four individual titles in the annual Waterloo "Y" tournament, as he showed the way by capturing his class championship. Jim Stoyanoff, 75-pounds; Roy Pickett, 115-pounds, and George Appleby, 165-pounds, were the other Old Rose victors. Lee McCombs, 125-pounder, and Frank Penn, heavyweight, took second place honors in the respective weight classes.

Fred Christen, undefeated 95-pound firebrand, and Doug Wilcox, four-letter man in the 105-pound class, left gaping holes in the West squad by their mid-year graduation. The ranks will be further depleted by the June graduates. Captain Charles Uban, 145; Bob Penaluna, heavy; Lee McCombs, 125; George Appleby, 165, and Herbert Hauser, 155, representing the heavier weight divisions, will all be lost.

In the four year span wrestling has been a major sport at West, Eriksen's squads have rung up 30 victories, dropping 10 dual meets, and tied one. Highlighting this fine record have been the Wahawk's three consecutive wins over East Waterloo. The only time the Trojans have won was in Coach Finn Eriksen's first year at West High.

Letter winners for the past season include Fred Christen, Bob Van Sickle, Jack Wilcox, Ed Kemp, Roy Pickett, Lee McCombs, Elmo Buker, Charles Uban, George Appleby, Herbert Hauser, Frank Penn, Robert Penaluna, and Douglas Wilcox.

With little to work with except untried material, Coach Gordon Meeter, with the help of Mr. Vinall and Mr. Boller, developed a well-balanced track squad which has made a creditable showing during the current season. The six veterans who did return were Jim Struthers, Bob Lindstrom, and Dick Nottger, sprinters; George Appleby, weight man; Donald Henry, hurdler and jumper; and Eldon Schumacher, distance.

The Wahawks opened the season by placing fifth in the Mississippi Valley meet, as Clinton high school rolled up 54 points to win. Jim Armstrong paced his mates by placing second in the 60-yard high hurdles and taking third in the high jump. Jim Armstrong in his first year as a hurdler placed fifth in the state indoor meet.

Bad weather prevailed as East high and West high deadlocked, with 55½ apiece, in the triangular meet which included Dubuque. Outstanding performances were turned in by Eldon Schumacher, miler, and Clifton Gibbs, broad jumper. First places were also won by Jim Struthers, Don Henry, and George Appleby.

In the first dual meet of the year, West whipped Grundy Center 67-51. The Old Rose thinclads took nine first places out of the fourteen events run off. Jim Armstrong negotiated the high hurdles in :16.3, and Eldon Schumacher ran the mile in 4:51.3 to turn in outstanding performances.

East high was the first team in ten years to beat the Wahawks in a dual meet as they nipped West 64½-57¾. The meet was close all the way, as the Old Rose team strength matched East High's individual stars. Jim Struthers capped two events, winning the 440-yard dash and the broad jump. Jim Neebel, Eldon Schumacher, and George Appleby also placed first in the specialties.

The Old Rose thinclads finished sixth in the Hampton relays, won by East Waterloo. George Schoel, George Appleby, Don Henry and Jim Armstrong won the major share of West's points.

The West high sophomore track squad entered two meets during the season, and won them both. The first was a triangular affair, with West winning over Cedar Falls and Vinton by a comfortable margin. George Schoel paced the sophs to the triumph. The sophs also downed Teachers High, Cedar Falls, 78-49 in a dual meet. Enoch Davison, with two firsts and a second, led the Old Rose thinclads.

A surprisingly well-balanced West High team nosed out East High to win the District Track meet 65 5/6 - 65 1/6.

Inseparables and Insuperables

He can't get along without her very well . . .What's the matter, Virginia, was he mean? . . . Flashy model you have there, Chuck. (Do we mean car or girl?) . . . Can't tell us he didn't know that was being snapped . . . Why the frigid zone? . . . They don't seem to be worrying about that earthquake-y looking sidewalk, do they? . . . We think he's got something here . . . "Love thy Neighbor" . . . They don't play fair; they posed for this . . . One of the Kamera Klub is taken instead of taking . . . Couples may come and couples may go, but we go on forever . . . The line forms on the right, girls . . . Wish you'd flash a grin like that in class . . . Martha Raye Thornton . . . Chilly, or camera-shy, Mr. Gibson? . . . You can come down off your dignity now, Mr. Boller, no one's looking.

Something is certainly baffling Emma Jo . . . Our apologies to Arlan Hamer . . . Must be a ghost around that the camera missed . . . Prithee, why so sad? . . . Barrymore, the second . . . That's the lad that belongs to that foot . . . What's the matter, Jim, is Junelle with someone else? . . . Aha! Now, who stopped the camera once too often, Stro? . . . That's the foot that belongs to that lad . . . Leap frog? . . . Can't tell us it's the sun she's winking at . . . In a hurry, Marge? . . . Jack, what have you done? . . . Good idea, don't you think? . . . Peek-a-boo! . . . Feat-ures? . . . Gee, we're glad she hasn't a rolling pin handy! . . . Ask her why they call her "Nick" . . . Now we can see Windy's face—his mouth's closed . . . Either they're bashful, or there's something on the ground that we're missing . . . Had a hard day, Bob? . . . Come on in, the water's fine! . . . Moravia's loss was our gain . . . One-two-three-hey! Aren't there too many hands? . . . We'd like to see more of that picture . . . Wonder what'd happen if something jumped into Bill's mouth . . . We couldn't all let a squirrel get so close . . . Look pleasant, please! . . . Do you think that's nice, Jean? . . . Herbie turns on the ole personality smile . . . Why the coyness, gals? . . . Do-mi-sol-do . . . Why Gwen! what an undignified pose! . . . Hit or miss . . . Looks like a nice picnic . . . If three's a crowd, what's that? . . . Filibuster's getting a bang out of something . . . Marilyn turns farmerette on us . . . What could be making Betty frown? . . . We knew Virginia was short, but— . . . "I ain't got no-body" . . . "Oley" O-lay-he-hoo . . . Marie's heart throb relaxes . . . Must be spring fever—there's Dan taking it easy, too . . . ————and reconsider.
